

NO IDEA WHAT TO WRITE ABOUT?

You are working on your section and the page calls for a feature or a QuickRead but you have no clue what to write about. Here's some great stuff we have seen in other books to use to get you going and spark your imagination. More on page six.

SPORTS FEATURES

Last thoughts. What's the last thought in your mind before you run a race?

Trainers. What's the best thing about being a trainer? What's the worst?

In and Out. What's out this year with your team that was in last year?

Contribute. What is your biggest contribution?

In the news. Highlighting players who were featured in the local newspaper.

Work Ethic. Going above and beyond in amount of practice to achieve a goal.

Superstitions. Is your team superstitious? What do they ALWAYS do before a game?

What it takes. The definition of a champion by players and coaches at that particular school.

A week in hell. Memories of daily double practices that start every season.

Fuel food. What do you eat before you play/run?

Initiation. What do freshman go through when they find themselves on a varsity team?

Features for Clubs

Holiday charity. What service clubs did to raise money for charity during the holiday season.

Two sides of a coin. Clubs that represent opposites. Examples are PETA and a hunting club.

Still belonging after all these years. Students still involved in groups they started with in elementary school like Boy Scouts or Campfire.

Paint the school red. An art club project to put murals all over the school when their school colors are red and white.

Getting elected. Why students become club officers and if the job is rewarding.

Strange athons. What unusual athons (jogathon, skipathon, eatathon) did organizations create to raise funds.

A moving performance. The hardest part of being in the marching band, playing while marching.

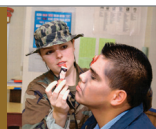

Bored or buzzin'. What describes your club's meetings?

Uniform tragedy. How do students feel about certain dress they have to wear for performances (band uniforms, choir robes, etc.)?

Dealing with deadlines. The stress of being in journalism and yearbook and having hard and fast deadlines.

Playing with guns. The only place guns are allowed in schools is Junior ROTC groups. What is it like being in the military when you are in high school?

Selling the strange. Unusual items that clubs have sold to raise money for projects.

ACADEMIC FEATURES

Excuses, excuses. What is the best excuse you ever gave for being tardy and did you get away with it?

Cultural experiences. Projects created for foreign language classes that showed total creativity.

Scientific process. Different biology and chemistry experiments lead to learning and laughter.

Stay (edu)cation at school. The economy forces cancellation of many traditional field trips.

Home (wr)Eck. Disasters in cooking classes.

Missing out. Students who graduate early love the freedom but hate missing out on the social aspects.

You're certifiable. Classes (like health for CPR) where you can get real-world certification.

Amusing exams. The way students stay sane during finals and midterms.

Love it or hate it. How students are totally black and white about taking physical education.

Competitive education. Focussing on classes that allow you to compete on an interscholastic basis. Business, agriculture, journalism are all examples.

Off the subject. What teachers can be taken off the subject at any time and on what subject.

PEOPLE & MORE

In the know. Unknown trivial facts about members of the class. Example: Steven M. is allergic to chocolate.

Green fever. Being eco-friendly at home and school.

Baggin' it. Cool armwear (bags and purses).

Personal space—OUT. Sharing lockers.

Neat necks. Scarves as a fashion statement for guys and girls. Guys who wear ties to high school.

Looking shady. Styles of eye wear and cosmetics.

Touch the future. Touch screens in your pocket, your home and your school.

Escaping it all. Vacation spots from last summer.

Political payoff. Finding new friends while working for a candidate for public office.

Vending machine mania. What's in your pop machine? And is it healthy?

Living in the hood. Students biggest fashion trend—hoodies for everyone.

From bed to class. How fast do you come to school? What do you do between wake up and learn time?

Bite out of the box office. The Twilight craze at your school. Is in in or out?

Double trouble. Dealing with being a twin.

Friends with faith. When your school friends are your church friends too.

Slippin' and slidin'. How students dealt with ice and snow on the roads and in the quad.

Riding the yellow banana. Tales from the school bus.

Face it, she tweeted. The importance of Facebook and Twitter to the students at your school.

Alumni teachers. Teachers who teach at the high school they graduated from and why.

Spirited teachers. Teachers who dress up for every day during Spirit Week.

FEATURING FEATURES

In keeping with the theme for November's idea issue, here is our annual list of features from 2008 yearbooks around the USA. You can use them as is, adapt them for your own or use them as a jump start to get your ideas flowing.

My senior year... (This feature ran throughout the senior section. It featured a quote in a box next to the senior's picture and listed all activities she and other seniors had participated in during their time at the school.)

Things that you can't live without.

What's your phobia?

What's on your iPod?

Q & A with missionary kids. (What's it like to spend a year away from home in a third-world country.)

Crazy hairdos.

What's your favorite television show?

Outcast: Students want to fit in with classmates.

Quinceaneras symbolize coming-of-age.

What is your favorite makeup brand?

Is high school what you expected it to be?

How do you stay involved in school?

Favorite entertainers.

Is popularity important?

Where do you see yourself 10 years from now?

You know you're a senior when.

18 things to do when you turn 18.

Top dream colleges.

How bad is your senioritis?

Senior secrets.

Wishes for Old Saint Nick.

Puppy love: The loves that started it all.

Inspired: Brilliant role models.

Trunk junk: A peek in the back seat.

Who would you rather date: Someone rich or good looking?

What were your childhood treasures?

Bending the rules: Regulations that should be changed or ditched entirely.

Beyond borders: Foreign exchange students tell their tales.

What's your definition of extreme?

Piercings and tattoos.

Get gaming: Rock Band or Guitar Hero?

Bucks spent: Where does all your money go?

Fan poll: Which sport do you watch and support more? Why?

What's your network: MySpace or Facebook?

Food love: What's eating you and what are you eating?

Movie madness: Top 10 movies of 2008 chosen by the students at this school.

Facial hair: Ladies' thoughts, gentlemen's preferences on beards and mustaches.

How do you deal with boredom?

Did you know: Everyday students share their not-so-everyday facts. Example: one boy lived over a funeral parlor.

What's your most exciting summer memory?

Styles: Fashionista versus Goth.

Who is the most famous person you have met?

Sunny side up: Simple ideas help make the best of a gloomy day.

What is your favorite part about returning to school at the end of summer?

Mr. Cupid is picking on me: Underclassmen expose their secret senior crushes.

Seniors by the numbers. (All the way through this senior section, the staff listed things you could count that seniors had done along with their photos. For instance, the number of college essays one girl wrote or the number of colleges another girl applied to.)

Yikes! That was totally embarrassing.

What would you do with $1 million?

Did you know: Students don't make friends, but friends make secrets.
