Sometimes in a meeting, the teacher will want you to look at something else, but still see the Google Meet too! Here's how to split your screen. Use the double ended arrow that appears when you hover in the tabs bar.

Use that double ended arrow to resize the window to be about half the size of your Chromebook screen.

Click and drag the tab you want out of the Chrome browser window.

Keep dragging until it is lined up side by side with your Google Meet window.

Sharing Your Screen with Your Teacher in Google Meet

Click "Present now" then choose:

If your teacher says they need to see your settings for your Chromebook.

If you're working with a split screen and you want to show the problem you're having in the application that you're using for class.

If you're not using split screen and you need help with a problem you're having on another tab.
