What is “No Child Left Behind”?

Education act signed into law in 2001 by President George W. Bush

- This Act, which redefined the federal role in K-12 education, was the most sweeping reform of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), since its enactment in 1965.
- The law was based on four basic principles: stronger accountability for results, increased flexibility and local control, expanded options for parents, and an emphasis on proven methods.

What is “Every Student Succeeds Act”?

Reauthorized version of the ESEA, signed into law in 2015 by President Barack Obama

- Represents an important step forward to improve the nation’s education system.
- While No Child Left Behind expected 100 percent proficiency for all students by 2014, ESSA gives states the authorization to identify their own goals to address proficiency on tests, English-language Arts, Math and graduation rates.

What is “Every Student Succeeds Act”? (Continued)

- The law maintains the annual testing requirement for English Language Arts and Math in grades 3rd-8th and 11th, and grade-span testing in Science. It also maintains subgroup reporting and a 95 percent testing requirement.
- ESSA is an improvement over the expired NCLB Act, shifting more authority to states and limiting federal mandates while maintaining a shared framework for K-12 accountability.
