Rose elementary schools. The cost will be $11,665,000 from the Building Fund. The district will receive $1.8 million in state funds for the project at Rose School.

2. BLUE PYRAMID GROWTH - Staff reviewed math and reading assessments by the Northwest Evaluation Association (NWEA) and the state for schools in the district's Blue Pyramid. The "2024 NWEA results for English showed overall growth in a majority of grades at every school" and "great" growth in Lincoln School's 4th grade and Howard School's 8th grade, staff said. But "there were pockets of stagnant or decreasing growth at each site." The results for math "showed much better growth" with "just a handful of grade levels" at schools that "did not show growth" and pockets of "extremely high levels of growth" at half a dozen schools.

Overall, "elementary school sites showed much higher levels of growth" compared to middle and high schools. But staff noted that English Learners and Special Education students were still struggling. In response to trustee questions, staff suggested that "the spirit of collaboration is stronger at the elementary level" and that the district needed to better lead its teachers in "how to steal good ideas from each other" through teacher collaboration and a "cycle of inquiry" based on data and students needs at each school. There are also "practices of intervention we need to steal from the elementary level for secondary."

Staff project that the district's performance rating in the California School Dashboard will improve from orange in 2022-2023 to yellow in English for 2023-2024 and will stay at yellow in math.
