Andres Lara Biography

At the age of 16, Andres Lara also known as, “The Cuban Guy”, arrived in America from Cuba not knowing any English. He came to the United states without his parents, without any money, and found himself homeless for sometime. In spite of his parents only completing the second grade and no one else in his family graduating from college, three years later he enrolled in Montclair State University. Not only did he manage to graduate, but also write his first international-selling book, "Inspire The Sleeping Giant Within" right before graduating. Today, he is the CEO of A. Success Training, author of several other international books, and a sought-after trainer/speaker.

###

Madera Unified School District was established in 1966. The District aspires to be widely recognized throughout California as a leader in education, where the futures of children are driven by their aspirations, and inspired by their circumstances.
